HAVERFORD PROFESSOR SPEAKS IN CHAPEL EXERCISES ON TIMELY SUBJECT

Noted Scholar Recently Returns From
Visit to China

ADDRESS OF PRACTICAL VALUE

As the last chapel speaker for the present academic year, Ursinus was fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Rufus M. Jones, of Haverford College, who spoke to the student body on Tuesday morning.

Dr. Jones is well known as a teacher, philosopher, author, and traveler. He recently returned from a very interesting trip to China, from which he gathered a vast amount of first hand knowledge upon the present situation in that country. Dr. Jones has followed scholarly pursuits all his life, having associated himself with Haverford College as a teacher for the past thirty-five years, and was professor of philosophy at that institution for the past twenty years. He is the author of numerous books, and is well known as a thinker and a teacher, and it was a privilege for Ursinus students to listen to him speak.

Dr. Jones' Message

In opening his address, Dr. Jones said, that we as students are getting ready for a great opportunity. Many people claim the world's the same as it ever was, "however," said Dr. Jones, "I doubt it. The age in which we live is different from any previous age. College men and women go out to find a great adventure. He laid emphasis on the fact that we should not miss the factors which build our souls, that we should not in our efforts to learn mathematics, astronomy, and physics, neglect the soul within ourselves. He told of how the

WOMEN'S LEAGUE SPONSORS CONCERT IN ALLENTOWN

Sponsored by the Women's League of the church, the Women's Glee Club gave one of the best concerts of its season on Friday night in the Dubb's Memorial Reformed church, of Allentown.

The guest soloist, Miss Ruth Sipple, opening the program, played two compositions on the harp. In both of her appearances Miss Sipple delighted everyone with her performance and her charming personality. As an encore to her second group, Miss Sipple played the "Song of the Volga Boatmen."

The Glee Club as a whole gave four groups of choruses. "Boats of Mine," as usual, was a general favorite, also "The Harp of Winds," "Anitra's Dance," and "Greeting of Spring."

By special request, a very humorous sketch was given by some of the members of the Club, under the direction of Bernice Leo, '27. The theme

MEN'S AFF. DEBATERS LOSE

The Men's Affirmative Debating Team lost a 3-0 decision to the Negative team of Penn State on Friday, April 29. The subject of the forensic tilt was: "Resolved that the Volstead Act be amended to permit the sale of light wines and beer."

The State speakers, Jack R. Richards, Kenneth Hood, and Robert P. Campbell presented their well thought-out arguments in a clear and concise manner, and earned the unanimous decision of the judges. They are all members of the Freshman class. The Ursinus debaters were: Clayton, '28, Keller, '29, and Bowman, '28.

The judges were Attorney J. L. Evans, of Pottstown, Rev. A. A. Hartman, Phoenixville, and Dr. Adam Hiltbeitel, Trappe. Dr. Kline acted as chairman for the affair.

STANLEY M. MOYER, Valedictorian

The "Weekly" wishes to extend heartiest congratulations to the honor students of the class of '27. To Stanley M. Moyer was accorded the highest honor, the valedictorianship. Moyer has established for himself a splendid record on the campus, besides his scholastic achievements. He was captain of last season's varsity eleven, president of the Men's Student Council and president of the Chemical-Biological Group. He intends to enter medical college.

BERTHA WEAVER, Salutatorian

The award of the salutatorianship to Miss Bertha Weaver was received with approbation everywhere. Her abilities have also manifested themselves in other ways than her academic attainments. She has taken on active interest in dramatics and classical dancing. Miss Weaver enters the teaching profession.

To both these highly honored students the well wishes for future success of the Faculty and student body are extended.

DR. R. SPANGLER ADDRESSES MEETING OF BIOLOGY CLUB

Epilepsy and Related Diseases the Subject of Speech

MANY MEMBERS ATTEND

The Biology Club held a meeting in Zwinglian Literary Society Hall, Wednesday, April 27. The meeting was called to order by Pres. Schreiner, after the routine business of the Club was transacted the speaker of the evening, Dr. Ralph H. Spangler, '97, was presented to the society.

Dr. Spangler is one of Ursinus' most prominent alumni, the retiring president of the Alumni Association. He is at present a physician in Philadelphia and a specialist in Epilepsy and Allergic diseases. Dr. Spangler addressed the members on the different aspects of Epilepsy and the methods of treatment practiced. The address consisted of two parts; the introduction in which he defined the terms peculiar to the disease; and the main speech in which he cited several cases from his own rich experience.

The able speaker clearly set forth the theories of Anaphaloxiosis or hypersensitivity in which there is a tendency towards hives and other skin diseases; anti-bodies and their relationship to immunity; and atrophy or a state of allergy in which there is an inheritable factor. Then followed a discussion of clinical allergic phenomena. The importance of the Endocrine or ductless glands, the glands of internal secretion, and their present status in medicine was clearly outlined.

Dr. Spangler showed by means of charts which he himself constructed from data of his own practice the inheritance of epilepsy, hives, etc., and Migraine or sick headache.

Dr. Spangler's address was enthusiastically received by the large assemblage of members. He intends to present several of his charts at a meeting of the National Allergic Society to be held in Washington, D. C. at which time he will speak of Epilepsy and related diseases with special emphasis on the hereditary factor.

CORNERSTONE LAYING

The laying of the cornerstones of the new dormitory buildings will take place Wednesday morning, May 4. If the weather should be unfavorable for an outside gathering, the ceremonies will be held on Friday morning. The hour will be nine o'clock, the exercises taking the place of the usual chapel service. The entire college will participate. Visitors will be welcome.

PHILHARMONIC QUARTET IN SEASON'S LAST CONCERT

Large Audience Delighted With the Presentation of Chamber Music

JANE HOWELL SINGS

On Wednesday evening, the last, and in many ways, the best concert of the 1926-27 Community Entertainment Course was presented by the Philharmonic String Quartet and Miss Jane Howell. The audience was not large but those who were present heard a really wonderful concert. The Quartet was at its very best and even succeeded in surpassing the splendid recital presented in Bomberger Hall last spring. Miss Howell, always popular, again delighted her hearers by her clear and flexible voice.

Chamber music is one of the most delicate and difficult types of music. The difficulty of obtaining a true ensemble is very great, and on this hinges success or failure. There must be perfect balance for if one member of the quartet predominates, the special effect is destroyed and the quartet is resolved into a soloist accompanied by a stringed orchestra. The Philharmonic String Quartet, which is composed of Harry Alenikoff, first violin; Immanuel Roth, second violin; Philip Netter, viola, and Milton Printz, cello, seems to have overcome this difficulty for their playing was a dream of beautiful harmonies and striking melodies. Precision of attack and perfection of timing contributed to the beauty of their music.

As an opening number the Quartet played the Quartet in F, op. 26 by

MISS MARKLEY, '02, SPEAKS TO WOMEN'S STUDENT GOV.

Special Emphasis Placed on Importance of Vocational Education

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED

At a meeting of the W. S. G. A. on Thursday evening the new members of the Student Council were installed, and Miss Bernice Leo, '27, the retiring president, was presented with a pearl "U" with her class numerals. After the inauguration of the new officers, Miss Mary E. Markley spoke to the girls on "Vocational Work in the Church."

Miss Markley explained the prominent part woman plays in the administration of churches of every denomination. She is Secretary of the Board of Education of the Lutheran Church, and has a very broad knowledge of the educational and administrative work of all churches.

"The Catholic Church has a very wide field of service for women in educational work, and the Protestant Churches of the U. S. have in their service hundreds of Deaconesses whose work varies from nursing and doctoring to preaching and teaching."

She especially emphasized the rapid advancement that is possible in the ladder of church work, and encouraged only those girls to enter that service who have the "spiritual feeling."

The general requirements she presented are these: A genuine liking for people, an infinite supply of patience, a sense of proportion—ability to see things from any viewpoint and see them "on the round," social poise, and sense of humor. Any professional touch must be done away with, and the ability must be acquired to meet people of all kinds on the same plane.

Miss Markley gave the girls much valuable information about service in the church, and brought before them the vastness of the field and opportunity. She is the second Ursinus alumna to deliver a talk on vocational work to the co-eds, and was very highly enjoyed and appreciated.

The talk given by an alumna of the College was particularly pertinent to the women of today who are receiving larger and varied calls to service.

BEARS PLAY LOOSE BALL AND LOSE TWO DIAMOND TILTS IN CENTRAL PENNA.

Juniata, Outthit, wins 4-2, While State
Runs Up Large Score

KARPINEN HURLS NICELY

The Bears returned to town late yesterday afternoon after completing a disastrous three days' sojourn among the Indians and Lions of Central Pennsylvania. Coach Kichline's men, after outthitting the Juniata nine dropped the contest 4-2, on Friday afternoon. On Saturday, at Penn State the boys were administered a sound trouncing, suffering at 16-2 setback.

Juniata Wins 4-2

In the Juniata game on Friday the Bears poled out eight hits, four of them two-baggers, but pushed only two markers across the platter. The Indians on the other hand, made their hits count and coupled with several costly slips by the Bruins tallied four runs and the ball game. Karpinen did the hurling for Ursinus and made a nice job of it, granting but six safe bingles and retiring seven by the knockout route.

State Routs Bears 16-2

In the State game on Saturday the Grizzlies made but seven hits off the fine pitching by Van Atta while twelve Ursinus batsmen took three lusty swings at the ball and missed fire. The Nittany Lions had little difficulty in clouting Mink and Cain for sixteen hits and as many runs. Among the deluge of safe blows was a homer by left fielder Page.

Mink yielded twelve runs and eleven hits during the first four innings while Cain was touched for five runs and four hits in the last four stanzas.

DIRECTRESS RECEIVES GIFT FROM MEN'S GLEE CLUB

Special events marked both appearances of the Men's Glee Club during the past week. At the concert on Tuesday, March 26, in the Pottstown High School, Miss Jeanette Douglas Hartenstine, the directress of the Club, was the recipient of a hand bag, a gift of the members of the Glee Club as a token of their appreciation of her work. The presentation of the bag was made by R. M. Henkels, Manager of the Glee Club.

The Pottstown concert was one of the most successful and well rendered programs of the current season. The Pottstown papers had glowing accounts of the splendid work of the Club, and particular mention was made of Weller, baritone soloist, a native of Pottstown, who performed unusually well. The attacks and tonal shadings of the chorus numbers reached a high degree of excellence, well deserving the applause that their rendition elicited. The soloists and quartet

Editorial Comment

SALUTATORY

It is with a feeling of trepidation that we take over the first issue of the New Weekly. During the past year it has been a great privilege and pleasure to serve under the able leadership of the retiring editor, Samuel Reimert. Under his administration the Weekly has taken rapid strides forward, in form, in literary excellency, and in making itself felt as a potent influence on the campus. The paper has been raised to a place of high rank among the college journals of the East. It is no light task to continue "The Weekly" on the high plane set for it.

Certainly the advice as set forth in the editorial column of the last "Weekly" should not fall on barren ground. It shall be the duty of this staff to seek the truth and "make the search with common sense." The purpose of this space shall be to act as a mirror reflecting student thought and opinion. It is the earnest wish of the present incumbent that the students shall see this in a different light than heretofore. Editorials from the student body would undoubtedly present new and different angles to the topics which lie before us.

A SCIENCE BUILDING

It is quite natural that in selecting a theme for an editorial we should choose for it that which lies nearest to our heart—a Science building. With the rejuvenating spring time again with us, and new life appearing everywhere, Ursinus College has caught the spirit of spring, the entire campus presents a scene of busy activity, the grounds have been beautified by the addition of shrubbery and ornamental plants, work on Patterson field has commenced, and the new dormitories are progressing at a rapid rate, the dream of those men who have sacrificed their lives to the Greater Ursinus is it seems, at last coming true. But in this sudden prosperity let us not forget the greatest need of the College, a Science building. Examination of Bomberger reveals a serious congestion, conditions crowded beyond the point where it is possible to do efficient work. Yet increasing the enrolment will not release the situation. Another lecture hall is an imperative need.

The splendid venture, in the form of a new Department of Physics, adds another weight to the cause of a Science building. The present Physics laboratory is constructed in such a manner that it will not serve for accurate experimentation.

If the chemistry laboratory is allowed to remain in Bomberger much longer two buildings for recitation will be necessary. Daily noxious vapors, and strong acid fumes ascend upward to the chapel in startling compliance to the laws of Physics. It is with great difficulty that the Clark Memorial Organ can be played, the metal connections form an excellent corrosive substance for the acid fumes. Every afternoon the chapel and indeed the whole building is rendered untenable by the vapours, that fill it. To say that these gases do not have a very injurious effect on the wood and furnishings of Bomberger would be folly indeed. It might be said that this condition always existed but certainly it never existed in such a marked degree, as every year the number of stuents is increasing, increasing too rapidly for the capacity of the institution. Is it not better to train a relatively small number of students well, to provide ample and adequate facilities than to try and provide for a large number in a crowded fashion? The quality of the work done and value of an education seems to suffer sorely in the modern colleges from the fact that the number of students attending them is too large. Of course to erect dormitories is a sound business proposition, they provide good returns for invested funds. But isn't a Science building more necessary at this critical juncture? Ursinus does not need more students but it does need better equipment and more room for work. Let us build the "Greater Ursinus" on a solid foundation. Arm her with the vision and strength to go forward and serve the youth of today with an education which will be free from the evils of modern college life.

To you then, Alumni and friends, we appeal for aid. Never before has the need of a Science building been greater. Your college stands at the threshold of a new era. Modern life compels each one to be familiar with the principals of Science and to fail to adequately provide for this side of the College is indeed unsound.

C. H. E., '28.

ANNUAL BROTHERHOOD BANQUET HELD MONDAY NIGHT

The Brotherhood of St. Paul held their annual banquet Monday evening, April 25, in Freeland Dining Hall. The annual event is one that is welcomed by all loyal members of the Brotherhood, and it is needless to say one that was enjoyed and relished by all who participated in it.

About seven o'clock the boys of the Brotherhood, and several charter members of the faculty and those interested in its work and purpose gathered around the banquet table and did justice to a fine, well prepared and tasty meal, after which, Earl Gardner, the president, in a few chosen words welcomed all, and explained the purpose of the annual banquet as one of good fellowship and fun.

Dr. Omwake was then called upon to introduce the speaker of the evening, Dr. Rufus Jones of Haverford College.

He characterized the speaker as being a teacher, philosopher, author, and traveler well known the world over.

Dr. Jones recently returned from a world tour, and spent a considerable part of his time in China, from which he obtained first hand knowledge concerning the present situation in that country. Mixed with many humorous illustrations, Dr. Jones gave the Brotherhood a very interesting and instructive talk upon "China," setting forth his many experiences while in that country, and his own views regarding the present situation.

After the very excellent address, Willard Kratz, on behalf of the Brotherhood then presented to Dr. Jones an Ursinus plaque as a token of appreciation and something to remind him of his visit to Ursinus College. The evening of good fellowship came to a close by the singing of the Campus Song and the pronouncing of the benediction by Dean Kline.

MODERN POETRY THEME OF ENGLISH CLUB DISCUSSION

At a regular meeting of the English Club held Tuesday evening at Olevian, Modern Poetry was the subject of discussion. Free verse writers in particular were considered in the papers that were read.

The first two papers presented opposite sides of the life and writings of one of the most discussed of modern poets, Amy Lowell. The first was "Amy Lowell as a Worth While Influence in American Life" prepared by Mildred Stibitz, '28. It showed the many useful activities in which Miss Lowell participated aside from her work as a free verse poet. Mary Kassab, '28, wrote on Miss Lowell as "The High Priestess of Vers Libre," and maintained that Miss Lowell thru her writing of free verse had often failed to live up to her true poetic gift.

Elizabeth Harter, '28, presented the life and writings of Carl Sandburg, the poet of the West. Mr. Sandburg is the son of immigrants and has spent his life in different fields of labor, farming and working in factories among other things and is now engaged in newspaper work. He ranks with Miss Lowell as one of the foremost American free verse poets.

Modern novels will form the subject of discussion at the next meeting, which will be the last for the year.

TEA GIVEN TO JUNIORS IN HONOR OF MISS MARKLEY

The girls of the Junior Class were the guests at a Tea given by Dr. White in honor of Miss Mary Markley on Thursday afternoon. After a little pseudo intellectual diversion, delightful refreshments were served and Miss Markley was presented. The affair was a decided social success and added to Dr. White's already well-established reputation as a delightful hostess.

Gettysburg authorities have taken the initiative to bring about a "Little Three" relationship under which Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg and Dickinson will be closely united by social and educational ties. The project involves the interchanging of representatives of the three colleges in the various branches of campus activities, thru the medium of the college Y. M. C. A.

WHEN a man has had his heart set on having a grandfather clock and then unexpectedly comes into possession of one you cannot expect him to keep quiet about it—that is if he got the clock in a perfectly legitimate way. So hearken while I tell you of my new old grandfather clock.

To begin with I must go back about fifteen years when our neighbors in "Lovers Lane" broke up housekeeping and asked us to keep their grandfather clock for a while until it should be determined which member of their scattered family should have it. We accepted the charge, happy if we should have the clock in our house if only for a fortnight. Well, the fact is we had it for fifteen years. When we moved to "Superhouse" the old clock came with us and was given a place in the corner of my study. I wound it every night. Its one lone weight had to be drawn up by pulling a chain every twenty-four hours. Its tick and its strike were as the voice of a companion in conversation and they always told the truth. The old clock became my faithful friend, and I half hoped its one-time possessors had forgotten about it, so that we might go on through life together.

But one day last autumn the gentleman to whom it had fallen as an heirloom came and took it away. Of course I could not protest. I could only be thankful that I had enjoyed the service and companionship of the ancient timepiece for so many years. Yet how I missed it! As I glanced over my left shoulder repeatedly to note the time, I not only suffered the disappointment of not getting it but felt something of the loneliness which attends the sombre thought of one departed.

After a while I resolved to get another—one that should be my very own, and began inquiring of my friends and saving up my money. As unexpectedly as the former clock departed another came to take its place. On a Wednesday night—the night everybody in Collegeville reads the newly issued town paper, we read among the "For Sale" notices an announcement offering "a grandfather clock over one hundred years old." The owner lived right here in Collegeville.

Next morning, contrary to my rule never to miss chapel services when I am at home, I "cut" chapel and went down town instead. I was the first purchaser to appear and in twelve hours after the clock was offered it became mine. (No charge to the Collegeville Independent for this testimonial as to the effectiveness of its advertising columns). After a week at the "clock fixer's," the precious old time piece was ticking off the seconds there in the corner of my study just as its worthy predecessor had done in the years gone by.

It is a fine specimen of the old-time grandfather clock. On its face decorated with roses, now of true old rose color, appears the legend "Gth. Owen, Montgomery County." Happy in the possession of the clock, I am now desirous of finding out all I can about the maker. If you know anything about Griffith Owen, please write me.

ALUMNI NOTES

Please send news about yourself and other alumni to the Alumni Editor. All news greatly appreciated.

Prof. Maurice A. Hess, '14, coach of debating at McPherson College, Kansas, has just completed a very successful season with his Bulldog debaters. The State Championship was won by McPherson when it closed its season with a dual victory over Southwestern College. Both the Negative and Affirmative teams have a clean slate for the whole season. A championship argumentative quartet was the fruit of the efforts of Professor Hess five years ago, too.

Miss Dorothy Williams, ex-'23, of Perkaspie, was a visitor on the campus last week.

David Evans Brown, ex-'27, renewed acquaintances on the campus on Tuesday. After leaving Ursinus "Brownie" attended Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, for two years. He is now a representative of the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, and is located in New York City.

Rev. L. J. Rohrbaugh, of North Lima, Ohio was a visitor in Collegeville on Wednesday. He is the father of Frank Rohrbaugh, '30.

Miss Helen M. Ferree, '14, of Media, was a visitor on the campus last week end. With the assistance of several of the college girls, she arranged the Shaw-Bernard Collection in the new cases recently purchased by Mr. Max Bernard, of Chester. Miss Ferree is teaching English at the Upper Darby High School.

Daniel B. Kulp, '23, has resigned his position in the Hollidaysburg, Pa., High School to accept a position as supervising principal of the Williamsburg Borough Schools, Williamsburg, Pa.

The regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Wednesday evening. Miss Dorothy Beck, '30, presided. After singing several devotional hymns and the reading of the scriptures, Miss Beck gave us a talk on "Being Worthy of Your Trust." Miss Claire Frank, '28, read a delightful poem entitled "Living with People." Miss Janice Wilt '30 also read an appropriate number entitled "Fellowship." The leader continued with some Bible verses from "Romans." To explain she gave examples from school life. She concluded with an "If" for girls.

Miss Moyer announced Mrs. Sheeder's intention to conduct a Bible study class from five to six o'clock on Thursdays.

NEW MEMBERS OF CENTRAL THEO. SEMINARY FACULTY

Central Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio, announces the election of two new professors. One of these, chosen on nomination of the Directors of Ursinus College in accordance with certain charter rights, is the Rev. Edward Rohrbach Hamme, B. D., who becomes professor of Old Testament Languages, Literature and Theology. Professor Hamme was a student in Ursinus College for two years in 1904-1906. He transferred to Gettysburg College near which was his home, from which he was graduated in 1909. He immediately entered Central Theological Seminary where he distinguished himself as an industrious and thorough student. He was graduated from the Seminary with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in 1912. The intervening years have been spent in pastorates so located as to permit almost continuous university study, first at the University of Pittsburgh where he spent one year, and later at the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore where he has been registered in the Oriental Seminary since 1919, and where he has pursued the study of Hebrew and other Semitic languages as well as the history of the Ancient East. For one year he was an instructor in Assyrian and Hebrew in the Oriental Seminary, Johns Hopkins University. He is an active member of the American Oriental Society. His university studies which have ripened his scholarship and his extended pastoral experience make him an exceptionally strong and promising professor for this important department.

REV. H. H. WERNECKE

The Rev. Herbert Henry Wernecke, Th. M., was elected to the professorship of Church History. He was brought up in the Reformed Church in Wisconsin and received his collegiate and elementary theological training in the Mission House College and Theological Seminary at Plymouth, Wisconsin. After spending four years in the pastorate he entered Princeton Theological Seminary in which institution and also in the Biblical Seminary in New York he carried farther his studies in Church History. During the past year he has been a graduate student in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., from which he will receive the degree of Doctor of Theology, in course, this spring.

REV. E. R. HAMME

Dr. George Stibitz, who retires from the Old Testament chair as a professor emeritus, will conduct courses for the time being in the New Testament department.

Haverford Professor Speaks in Chapel

ancient Athenian pupils would when the teacher entered the room shout in unison, "tell us of the soul."

The next important thing today is the development and culture of the inner life, and we should develop the depth, power, and dynamic qualities so that our life will count. In the twenty-fourth chapter of Exodus we read, "The Elders of Israel went up to Mt. Sinai, where they saw God, and they did eat and drink."

What was the right reaction, what would you do? Different people do different things. Monks and Nuns separate themselves from mankind. St. Francis of Assisi, saw God, and dedicated himself to poverty. St. Catherine of Siena, saw God, and dedicated herself to celibacy, in order to serve God better. Augustine wrote the story of his life, while others have gone out to foreign lands—"the twilight zones"—on a great adventure to transform the world. They saw God and they did eat and drink. It glorifies and penetrates the simple life, rebuilds our civilization, and lays the basic foundations of our religion. The prophets of old relied upon God, they laid hold of his energies, and they ran and did not grow weary, and walked and did not faint.

The student of today is in the running stage, full of spirit. Most of life consists in doing routine things, for life is full of routine, and in doing the everyday tasks for joy, that is life.

Christ glorified the simple things of life, for he spoke of the common things in parables. He said, "I am the Bread and Water of life." Religion is not something you can get along without, it is not an "after spray," but it is elemental and fundamental to our living, and it comes to us, not in monasteries, but when and where we need it most.

Christ united life and brought spiritual forces to light. There is a tendency on the part of some people to split the world into two parts, to separate religion in one department and the secular life in another. The three disciples of old did not wish to come down from the Mount of Transfiguration and mingle with the common people, and be of service to them. So it is with many people today who have had mountain top experiences, they want to stay on the mountain top. It is for us to find the right, and the power of God, for we need it more than we need our laboratories and our stadiums. Finally, Dr. Jones ended his very interesting, instructive and inspiring address in saying, "America must discover God, for it cannot have civilization without religion, and finally there is no supreme leadership without Christ."

Dvorak. This classical selection was rendered in a most delightful and artistic manner, and to those who had not heard any chamber music before it was a revelation.

In her solos, Miss Howell was accompanied by William Sylvano Thunder, well known to Ursinus audiences. For some reason Mr. Thunder had not placed himself on the program but he was persuaded by special requests to play a solo. After the Quartet's last number he played a pleasing number with his usual skill.

of the story centered around the return home of the daughter, Gladys Parks '28, from a girls' school. The playlet was much enlivened by a group of typical small town gossips, ranging from a former London citizeness to the wife of a South Sea Island missionary. This was a very enjoyable innovation on the Glee Club program.

Two delightful solos were sung by Polly Thomas, '27, and Grace Kauffman, '27.

To the members of the Women's League of the Reformed Church the Glee Club wishes to express its appreciation of the kindness shown to them in making the concert possible and also their thanks of the hospitality offered them at the close of the performance.

tette all did their part towards the general excellence of the program.

The second concert of the week was given in the Conshohocken High School on Thursday, March 28. A well-filled house greeted the Glee Club in their second appearance in as many years, and the men did not disappoint their listeners, who were expecting to hear a concert par excellence. Choral numbers, violin, trumpet, and baritone solos, as well as the quartet selections, were all performed in a manner that showed splendid training, and reflected nothing but great credit upon the Ursinus College Glee Club.

After the concert, the men on the club were guests of honor at the Conshohocken Community Club, where dancing with the many charming young ladies of the community, and the consumption of delicious "groceries" in large quantities, put a perfect finish to an eventful evening.
